FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE (REGIONAL: WALES)

51 Winding-Up Petitions Advertised Against Companies in Wales in the 8 Weeks to 25 October 2026

51 winding-up petitions were advertised against companies Wales in the 8 weeks to 25 October 2026, about 6% of all petitions advertised in England and Wales in that period, according to the Director Aid Winding-Up Petition Index, published by Director Aid.

HMRC presented 53% of the petitions Wales. Across England and Wales, 633 petitions were advertised in October 2026, up 190 (43%) on September 2026, 62% of them presented by HMRC. Of the petitions advertised since 8 September 2026 whose hearing was at least three weeks ago, 42% have been followed by a winding-up order. The first hearing is typically listed about 12 days after a petition is advertised, which is usually the point at which the company's bank freezes its account.

Nationally, the sectors with the most petitions over the most recent four weeks were construction (111), retail, wholesale and motor trade (65), business support services (62), hospitality (hotels, restaurants, bars) (55).

Alastair Redfern LL.B., Solicitor, founder of Director Aid, said: "A rise of 43% in a month is not noise; it is creditors, and above all HMRC, deciding that waiting no longer pays. HMRC presented 62% of them, and that is the figure directors should notice: tax arrears are the most common route to a petition by a wide margin. Construction is again the sector with the most petitions, which reflects how late payment up the chain turns into tax arrears at the bottom of it."

> "For a director Wales, the practical point is the same as anywhere else: the petition is advertised before the hearing, the bank usually freezes the account when it is, and the options are widest in the few days in between."

WHAT DIRECTORS SHOULD DO WHEN A PETITION ARRIVES

- Note the hearing date and work out the earliest date the petition can be advertised: seven business days after service.
- Stop non-essential payments from the company's account: payments after the petition was presented can be void if a winding-up order follows.
- Check whether the debt is genuinely disputed, and take advice before the advertisement date, when
